

I oppose the Consumer Bankers Association (CBA) attempts to challenge Indiana's Telephone Privacy law in a proceeding before the Federal Communications Commission (FCC).

The CBA is attempting to impose the federal "established business relationship" exemption on Indiana consumers. If successful, anybody that you currently have a business relationship with (e.g., your bank, credit card company, long distance carrier) will be able to call you as often as they want.